

ON THE SHORES AND IN THE SEAS OF CUBA

by

G. RADÓCZ

Summary

The author spent several months in Cuba to get experiences in the oceanographical researches in that country. He gives a short introduction to the structure and evolution of the shelf region of Cuba. He reviews the Recent depositional and floral-faunal zones of the coral reefs around the island. As a conclusion, he emphasizes the importance of making actuogeological and -paleontological studies of Recent, especially tropical shallow-marine environments.